Guam Public Auditor Doris Flores Brooks Selected as CSG Toll Fellow

LEXINGTON, Ky.—Guam Office of Public Accountability Public Auditor Doris Flores Brooks has been selected to participate in one of the nation’s premier leadership development programs for state government officials, The Council of State Governments’ Henry Toll Fellowship program.

The 48 leaders in the Class of 2016 Toll Fellowship program hail from 29 states, Puerto Rico and Guam and represent all three branches of state government. A 12-member committee of state leaders, many who are Toll Fellows themselves, reviewed applications and selected the class.

“The Toll Fellowship program’s goal is to improve state government,” said Brooks. “Participation in the program will afford me the opportunity to meet fellow government officials who have similar aspirations and face similar problems, particularly in the funding area. We can all gain from meaningful interactions.”

For 30 years, the Toll Fellowship program, named for CSG founder Henry Wolcott Toll, has convened a group of the nation’s top state officials for an intensive, six-day, five-night intellectual boot camp. This year’s program will be held Aug. 26-31 in Lexington, Kentucky.

The program’s agenda includes a lineup of dynamic speakers and sessions designed to stimulate personal assessment and growth, while providing networking and relationship-building opportunities. Each year’s program is unique, but previous programs have included sessions on leadership personality assessment, media training, crisis management, appreciative inquiry and adaptive leadership.

“The Toll Fellowship program provides elected officials with an invaluable and incomparable leadership development experience,” said David Adkins, CSG executive director/CEO. “In addition, the program fosters lasting friendships among a diverse group of elected officials with a like-minded passion for public service.”

Adkins was a 1993 Toll Fellow when he served as a Kansas state representative.

Toll Fellows alumni include Oregon Gov. Kate Brown; U.S. Rep. John Carney, a former Delaware lieutenant governor; Arizona Gov. Doug Ducey; Maine Secretary of State Matthew Dunlap; Tennessee Secretary of State Tre Hargett; Delaware Gov. Jack Markell; Arkansas Secretary of State Mark Martin; Alabama Secretary of State John Merrill; Iowa Secretary of State Paul Pate; U.S. Rep. Todd Rokita, a former Indiana secretary of state; and former U.S. Labor Secretary Hilda Solis.

Brooks said she hopes the Toll Fellowship experience will advance her toward her goal of making Guam the model for good governance in the Pacific and making the Guam Office of Public Accountability a model audit office.

“We are in an age of constant transition, change and innovation,” said Brooks. “Through this program I hope to learn from the speakers and participants ways to improve my leadership style so that I can be a better leader and better analyze the problems facing governments.”

The Council of State Governments is a region-based forum that fosters the exchange of insights and ideas to help state officials shape public policy. CSG is the nation’s only organization that serves all three branches of state government. For more information, visit www.csg.org.
